

SHIPLEY SURNAME Y-DNA PROJECT

Last update: 06/28/2020

Project Managers:

Bill Shipley (wwshipley@wwshipley.com): For questions about DNA

Janine Wilson (janinelwilson@yahoo.com): For questions about genealogy

Spreadsheet maintained by Janine Wilson. Please contact her for corrections or additions needed.

Listed first are descendants of Adam Shipley, who was born in Yorkshire, England, and came to Maryland in 1668.

For more about him, see www.shipleysofmaryland.org.

Members of the Shipleys of Maryland have access to an online genealogy database.

The first group listed are those participants who are able to document their ancestry back to Adam Shipley. Listed next, participants from "broken lines" (descendants of Adam Shipley with no documentation to prove the line back to Adam). Those who have a Henry number in The Shipleys of Maryland, 2002 edition are listed first, followed by those whose earliest known ancestor has no Henry number assigned.

Next listed are other participants who are not related to Adam Shipley, who have at least one Y-DNA match to create other Shipley family groups.

Y-DNA results, listed using the anonymous kit numbers shown here, are available at this site:

<https://www.familytreedna.com/groups/shipley/about>

To be included below, participant must have a Y-DNA37 test or more.

Descendants of Adam Shipley

(b. 1648, Kirkby Fleetham, Yorkshire, England; d. bef 1698, AA Co., MD; m. Lois _____)

We would like to get at least two participants from the lines of each of Adam's grandchildren; but the more the better. Those with documented lines might help those from broken lines find clues to their ancestry.

Looking for at least one more participant from the line of Richard .113. Also more participants from the line of Peter .14.

H # = Identifying Henry number based on the Henry System; see The Shipleys of Maryland (2002 edition)

NA = None available

Participants are grouped based on their earliest known ancestor;

Participants are not included in unbroken lines section if DNA shows no relation to Adam Shipley

The Notes column may contain noted variants, which may or may not be useful for those trying to use Y-DNA data to connect a "broken line" line back to an unbroken line.

Note: the charts below are not intended as an interpretation of Y-DNA test results, other than to indicate when a participant is found to be NOT related to Adam Shipley. They were prepared by project manager Janine Wilson as an amateur genealogist, hoping it might be helpful to others in their genealogy research. For any questions related to interpretation of Y-DNA test results, please contact Project Manager Bill Shipley.

Broken Lines (those whose line back to Adam Shipley is not documented)

We would like at least two participants from each broken line. Check list below.

Results of Y-700 are showing some branches off the line of the Adam Shipley descendants, which could be helpful in determining your ancestry.

If Y-DNA test results show that the participant is not related to Adam Shipley, that will be noted.

NOTE: A participant found to be not related does not guarantee that others in that line are not related; a paternal event (such as adoption) may have occurred in a particular branch.

Many of these lines appear to be connected to the line of Benjamin Shipley .XF, who moved to Tennessee from AA Co., MD ca. 1784. For more about possible connections, see the document called "Shipley Broken Lines theories" at cpuworks.com/ancestry/. Janine Wilson (janinelwilson@yahoo.com)

SNP Tracker to trace your haplogroup

You can go to the link below, select SNP tracker, and enter your haplogroup. The Y-700 results have found a few new branches of the family that split off fairly recently from Adam's haplogroup, which is R-BY169899. The map shows how long ago each haplogroup split off from an earlier one, estimated by the number of variants; and the geographic path: <http://scaledinnovation.com/gg/gg.html?nm=tools>
